Note 1. Most standard records state that Allen Perley came to America in 1635; a slip found in Family Bible, however, asserts that he came over first in 1630 with Governor Winthrop; family tradition that he returned to Europe in 1634, apparently to get married and his arrival in America in 1635 was his second one.

PERLEY, "From the Perley Book"

Allan Perley (12) born in Wales, came to America first (Note 1) in 1630 in fleet with Gov. Winthrop and located in "Charlestowne Village" on land which is now included in Woburn, Mass. on a tract which has been known for 2½ centuries (to date of publication 1906) as "Parley Meddowe" (this spelling is found in probate and colonial records and is so pronounced by the citizens of Woburn today. Allan moved to Ipswich in 1635 and married Susanna Bokensen or Bokenson, he became a large landholder owning not only land in Ipswich but also in Essex, Rowley and Boxford, he was admitted to the privileges of Freeman, May 18, 1642, was a grand juror, Sept. 25, 1650, served on important committees and the presence of pewter upon his table showed him to have been a man of high social rank.

Thomas (13) married Lydia Peabody, dau. of Lieut. Francis Peabody and Mary Foster Peabody of Topsfield; Mary was daughter of Reginald Foster or Forster whose family is honorably mentioned in "Marmion" and in "Lay of the Last Minstrel"; her father came over in the same vessel with Allen Perley on his second trip arriving Apr. 2, 1635/

Thomas Perley settled in Rowley and moved to Boxford in 1604, he was made Freeman, May 23, 1677. He and John Peabody were chosen June 3, 1680, representatives to the General Court "Teell Government shall be seated (this referring to the downfall of Andros and resumption of the former regime) only they bee to sarve but one at a time". They were again chosen March 11, 1689-90 but Peabody "sarved both times". They served together at the quarterly session beginning June 8, 1692. Thomas was chosen a representative Oct. 31, 1693 and May 8, 1700, he and John Peabody were chosen, only one to serve at a time. He was chosen again for 1702. He was selectman six years, a constable 1688; grand juror 1695; trial juror three years, moderator of Town meetings six years. He was made quartermaster of the Boxford Militia Company about 1688 and Lieut. in 1691; he served in committees on the Boundry between Topsfield and Boxford and on organizing the first religious society, etc. in January, 1701 he was on the committee to receive the deed of the Town of Boxford from the Indians; he was extensively interested in promoting iron smelting which was begun in the Town in 1669. He was one of those who composed the jury that condemned Elizabeth Howe of Line Brook Parish, et. al. of witch craft.

Thomas (14) married Sarah Osgood, daughter of Capt. John and Mary (Clement) Osgood of Andover, for first wife, she being the mother of all of his children. He was Town Clerk 1712-23, inclusive; surveyor of Highways, 1723, moderator of Town meetings three years; selectman nine years; a representative 1703-9, and in 1712 he was chosen schoolmaster of the Town; he was also a military man and a fine officer, attaining the rank of captain.

Asa (15) was little in public life until his sons were able to carry on the farm; he was surveyor of highways 1747-61-66, field driver 1751, constable 1754, hogreeve 1757, as a man of commanding address. He was moderator of Town meetings in ten different years; he served on many important committees, - a committee of safety, one on the payment of soldiers and a committee of correspondence and safety; in 1771-72-80 and 81 he represented the Town in the General Court; in 1775 he was a member of the provincial Congress; he was prominent in the military and was made major of his regiment in 1774.

Dudley (16) his father gave him, laborer of Ipswich, Canada, lot #26, 100 acres, Jan. 10, 1764; John Hale of Boxford, gentleman gave his daughter Hannah, wife of Dudley Perley, 80 acres adjoining Perley's, March 1768/ On July 26, 1768 Dudley and wife moved to Winchenden, Mass. when that town was almost an unbroken wilderness; he was a member of a committee of correspondence and of the Winchenden minute men; he attained the rank of lieutenant in the militia and bore that title thereafter; he was a selectman in 1772.

John (17) was a pioneer in the settlement of Unity, Me. in 1800; he was a teacher of vocal music and played the violin in church; his daughter Nancy (18) married Cudworth Bryant Clark.
